EBB TIDE
1971

DEDICATION

"Stop this day and night with me and you shall possess the origin of all poems, You shall possess the good of the earth and sun, (there are millions of suns left,) You shall no longer take things at second or third hand, nor look through the eyes of the dead, nor feed on the spectres in books, You shall not look through my eyes either, nor take things from me, You shall listen to all sides and filter them from your self."

— Walt Whitman

Mr. Hartman is not analyzed by American Literature students, but, like Walt Whitman, he has something worth hearing. During our year in English III, we were given the opportunity to concentrate on learning, rather than grades. He introduced us to a wealth of knowledge, then taught us to seek it ourselves. He offered us much advice for college. With gratitude, the Class of 1971 dedicates the Ebb Tide to our ideal teacher, Mr. Wayne Hartman.

A Thought . . .

In September, 1969, we walked into U. S. History I and were greeted with "Good morning, class." In a few days we learned to reply, "Good morning, Mr. Ozoroski." The year of those dreaded oral reports had begun.

Mr. Ozoroski's classes were not like usual history classes. Sure, we learned about the Constitution and our founding fathers, but we also revived an interest in current events. We kept up with the unemployment rate, and had quite a few discussions about the Republicans and President Nixon.

Early in the winter, Mr. Ozoroski left for a couple of months for an operation. We were all happy to see him back after the Christmas holidays. We resumed our discussions on President Nixon, and continued our studies in the "history learning center." In the spring, Mr. Ozoroski coached the golf team, and despite their faults, he kept cheering them on.

Before long, most of the students were aware that Mr. Ozoroski was suffering from cancer. He kept smiling, and few of us knew of the pain he was in. Before we knew it, summer was here, and U. S. History I was over. We were enjoying the summer, while Mr. Ozoroski was undergoing several operations.

In September we returned to school, but Mr. Ozoroski stayed at home. Many of us would stop to see him and his wife, Terry. We'd talk about our year in History I, and more about President Nixon. . . . On November 23, 1970, the Beach High School lost one of the best teachers it has ever known.

OUR MR. SAWICKI

For many years Mr. Sawicki has been the Ebb Tide advisor. He has put in a great deal of time and effort to assure the publication of a well-organized yearbook. We, the Ebb Tide staff, would like to take this opportunity to thank Mr. Sawicki for all his hard work and consideration.

The Circle Game

Yesterday a child came out to wonder caught a dragon fly inside a jar fearful when the sky was full of thunder and tearful at the falling of a star then the child moved ten times round the seasons skated over ten clear frozen streams words like, when you're older, must appease him and promises of someday make his dreams and the seasons they go round and round and the painted ponies go up and down we're captive on the carousel of time we can't return we can only look behind from where we came and go round and round and round in the circle game sixteen springs and sixteen summers gone now cartwheels turn to carwheels thru the town and they tell him, take your time, it won't be long now 'til you drag your feet to slow the circles down and the seasons they go round and round and the painted ponies go up and down we're captive on the carousel of time
we can't return we can only look behind
from where we came
and go round and round and round
in the circle game
so the years spin by and now the boy is twenty though his dreams have lost some grandeur coming true there'll be new dreams maybe better dreams and plenty before the last revolving year is through
and the seasons they go round and round
and the painted ponies go up and down
we're captive on the carousel of time we can't return, we can only look behind from where we came and go round and round and round in the Circle Game.
